FONT

Based

Based is a jugendstil grotesk inspired by a thicket of late nineteenth and early twentieth century expressive and naïve sans-serifs. Based draws on the formalities of Breite Grotesk, the visual impact of Zeitungs Grotesk and the recherché curves of typefaces like Ronaldson Gothic, Secession, Chicago and Aviso. Specific details take reference from Berthold's Venus while the height of the cross bars in uppercase letters like E G R draw influence from Jugendstil and Secessionist lettering. The modulation (the stroke contact from thick to thin) is pushed to the extreme in the heavier weights of the terminals of curved letters. These strokes run thin making Based firmly non-linear.

Eliot's poem combines the legend of the Holy Grail and the Fisher King with vignettes of contemporary British society. Eliot employs many literary and cultural allusions from the Western canon such as Ovid's Metamorphoses and Dante's Divine Comedy, as well as Shakespeare, Buddhism, and the Hindu Upanishads. The poem shifts between voices of satire and prophecy featuring abrupt and unannounced changes of speaker, location, and time and conjuring a vast and dissonant range of cultures and literatures.
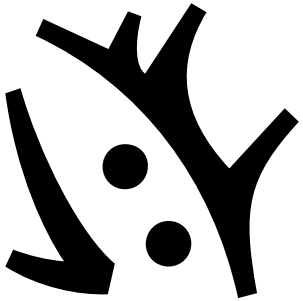

Eliot originally considered entitling the poem He do the Police in Different Voices. In the version of the poem Eliot brought back from Switzerland, the first two sections of the poem—'The Burial of the Dead' and 'A Game of Chess' —appeared under this title. This strange phrase is taken from Charles Dickens' novel Our Mutual
