„Świat się
zmienia” –
mawiali
inni – ale czy
na lepsze?

“The world is changing,”
others said,
“but is it for the better?”

I know better than anyone that I injure no one but myself by it; but still, if I don't consult a doctor it is from spite. My liver is bad—

My liver is bad—well, let it get worse! I've known all that a very long time, some twenty years. I am forty now. I used to be in the government service, but am no longer. I was a spiteful official. I was rude

I was rude and took pleasure in being so. I did not take bribes, you see, so I was bound to find a recompense in that, at least. (A poor jest, but I will not scratch it out. I wrote it thinking it would sound very witty; but now that I see myself that I only wanted to show off in a despicable way—I will not scratch it out on purpose!)

“I have already told you of the Machine—white quartz levers, its curious dials (marked 0, 1, 2, 3...), and the way in which it stood upon the laboratory floor, as if it had always been there. ‘Observe,’ I said, ‘how the indicator moves—slowly, steadily—past 5, 10, 20, 100!’ The others laughed—‘Impossible!’—yet they watched. At first, nothing seemed to happen; then—was it 1 minute? 2?—the daylight flickered, the room grew
